

PLEASE RETURN BY WEDNESDAY!

For my student teaching course through Central Michigan University, I have to video tape a lesson, critique it myself, and send it to my professor who will critique it as well. My professor has already been in the classroom three times to observe me and has met all of the students. The video is primarily focused on myself and my voice--in the video, only a few of the students' faces are shown but there are no close ups and no one is singled out when speaking. No last names have been said in the video.
